Goldco Review 2024: Pros, Cons, and Is It Right for Your Retirement?

However, our opinions are our own. See how we rate investing products to write unbiased product reviews.

Goldco has many of the standard benefits common to other precious metals retailers in this space but with a much higher price tag in the form of higher minimum investment amounts. If you plan to invest $25,000 or more, Goldco's promotional and bonus offers can make it an attractive investment option and one of the best gold IRAs. However, for smaller investments, you'll be better off considering alternatives.

Goldco Review

Goldco is best for those looking to invest larger sums of money into precious metals. For those who can meet the higher requirements, you could enjoy a fairly lucrative bonus in silver, which is not an offer many competitors have.

From Goldco's endorsement and media appearance, you will notice a more overt bias to its marketing resources than what you'll find from others in the industry. Be aware that using non-neutral sources of investment information to make financial decisions could impact how view the economy and allocate your assets, thus affecting your returns.

For a $50,000 investment, Goldco's total fees would be $230-$280 in the first year and $180-$230 annually after that. There are no transaction fees with Goldco.

However, Goldco requires a $25,000 minimum investment for IRAs ($15,000 outside of an IRA).

As for offerings, Goldco provides a larger selection of IRS-eligible gold and silver products, including:

- Various commemorative and limited edition coins, such as the Gold Innovation Motor Vehicle, Gold USS Texas, and Gold Great Barrier Reef Stingray.
- Popular bullion coins like Gold American Eagles, Gold American Buffalos, and Gold Canadian Maple Leafs.
- Both proof and bullion versions of many coins.
- Gold bars.

Goldco (<https://goldco.com/>) offers to buy back precious metals from customers at the highest price when they decide to sell. If a customer receives a higher buyback offer from another buyer within 24 hours of initiating a buyback with Goldco, they can cancel the Goldco transaction.

Cons: What We Don't Like

Our only Goldco complaints involve their account minimums and the fact that we had to reach out to Goldco for some of their fees and pricing information listed below.

Lack of Fees and Pricing Information on Website

One of the main criticisms of Goldco is the absence of detailed pricing and fee information on their website. Prospective customers must contact the company directly to obtain this crucial information, which can be a barrier for those comparing gold IRA companies and performing research online.

$25,000 Account Minimum

Goldco's services require a minimum purchase of $25,000 to open a Precious Metals IRA. This threshold may be higher than some competitors, potentially limiting accessibility for customers with less capital to rollover from an existing IRA or 401(k).

"Important Note: When choosing metals for your gold IRA, stick to widely recognized bullion products that are priced near the spot value of gold or silver. This ensures you receive the most gold and silver for your dollar.

Steer clear of high-priced semi-numismatic or "exclusive" coins. While some of these may meet the purity requirements for an IRA, their significantly higher premiums make them less cost-effective.

Additionally, there is little to suggest these 'premium' coins will outperform standard bullion in the long term."

Goldco Review

(This review was updated in December 2024)

Goldco has one of the most memorable names in the precious metal industry. However, the name alone is not enough to make you invest your IRA with them. You need to look through the myriad of investment companies in the industry before you can settle on a firm you can trust. This Goldco review examines the benefits and any possible disadvantages of opening a precious metal IRA with the company.

A Goldco overview

Trevor Gerstz founded Goldco over a decade ago as a web-based precious metal retailer. The headquarters is located in California. The CEO is currently the National Gold Group's IRA department president. The firm has since grown to encompass traditional 401k accounts and precious metal IRAs. The firm mainly deals in gold, but it also deals with other precious metals like silver and platinum.

Goldco has received numerous awards. In 2015, it was awarded the Los Angeles Top Gold IRA firm award by the LA Business Journal (<http://labusinessjournal.com>). It has well-established connections with other financial institutions like Horizon Bank and Equity institutional, giving the firm a backing of close to $12 billion.

What Goldco offers

The self-directed precious metal IRA allows a customer to buy precious metals from the business. The acquisition process is fairly streamlined. Goldco customer service representatives give the investor all the information concerning the precious metals they are interested in buying. This is normally done either online through the website or over the phone. The firm also handles most of the customers' paperwork.

The unique selling point is the self-directed IRA that allows not only purchase but also self-directed storage. These self-directed IRAs are under an LLC, ensuring that their other assets are protected. The main products you can buy are gold and silver bars or coins. Occasionally, the company offers palladium and platinum coins, but they mostly concentrate on the two main precious metals.

“When you are selecting the Gold Coins to hold in your Precious metals IRA keep in mind that you always want to get the most metal for the least amount of money. While the special edition Coins are pretty, they typically cost far more than other Coins. Ask your Goldco Precious metals specialist which bars and Coins carry the lowest premiums and spend the bulk of your hard-earned money on those products.”

Who is Goldco best for?

A Goldco self-directed gold and silver individual retirement account (IRA) is best suited to investors seeking hands-off asset diversification. Although these IRAs are limited to a single asset class, they offer investors the opportunity to hedge against paper investments by investing in precious metals.

Unlike investing in stocks, bonds or funds, you don't need to devote time to market research when selecting the investments for your precious metals IRA. Instead, select from Goldco's catalog of gold and silver bullion and fund your account. Goldco's precious metals IRAs function the same way as traditional and Roth IRAs, offering a tax-advantaged investment opportunity for investors who want to save for retirement.

FEEDBACK

How does it approach investing?

Investing in a precious metals IRA is different from purchasing paper assets through Precious metals IRAs offer a number of investing opportunities for those looking to save for retirement. Accounts are tax-advantaged and precious metals provide asset diversification that can help investors hedge against inflation.

An account with Goldco also offers the following perks:

Hands-off investing. There's little guesswork involved with a Goldco gold or silver IRA — your account administrator sends you a catalog of available coins and bars — you select what you'd like to purchase.

Solid reputation. Goldco maintains a strong online reputation across several reputable review platforms, including the Better Business Bureau (BBB).

Cons

Only certain products qualify for purchase and cashing out a precious metals IRA isn't as simple as selling off paper assets. You'll need to find a buyer willing to purchase your coins and bullion and may not get a competitive price.

And if you plan to open an account with Goldco, be wary of the following:

Lack of transparency. Goldco isn't forthcoming about what it charges its account holders.

High minimum deposit. You'll need at least $25,000 to open a Goldco gold or silver IRA, which is steeper than the $5,000 minimum required by a number of Goldco's competitors.

Can't add existing precious metals. Any assets you add to your Goldco IRA must be purchased through Goldco.

Goldco reviews and complaints

Goldco investor feedback is largely positive. As of February 2022, it's an accredited business with the BBB. It has a TrustScore of 4.7 out of 5 based on the feedback of 649 investors and has no complaints to its name on the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau.

"Bottom line

Goldco facilitates the purchase and storage of precious metals through its gold and silver IRAs. But it isn't forthcoming about its fees and aggressive sales reps have been reported.

Do your research ahead of time to make the best purchase to fit your investment strategy. Review your retirement investment options with multiple providers to find the account that best meets your long-term needs."

Why Gold IRAs?

Stability

Unlike the US dollar, which has lost 98% of its purchasing power since 1971, gold's purchasing power remains stable over time.

Diversification

Protect your wealth with an asset that can hedge against the damaging effects of a recession and financial calamity.

This company has recently made a big splash in the industry, thanks to celebrity endorsements from Sean Hannity and Chuck Norris, among others. Specifically, we like this company's buyback price guarantee: Goldco promises to buy back your metals at the highest possible price. This, and its silver coins promo for new accounts, allows us to confidently recommend Goldco for first-time buyers who are unsure how to begin investing wisely.

The modest $200 annual fee (waived the first year) is a bit higher than other companies but gives you the ability to see your own assets at any time.

- Metals: Gold and silver bars and coins
- Minimum investment: $25,000
- Fees: Setup, maintenance, wiring, storage
- Storage options: Not disclosed

Admittedly, we had a tough time finding information online about fees, account minimums, custodians, and storage options. But representatives were quick to respond to our questions when we reached out via the live chat feature. We also found Goldco's in-depth blog, eBooks, and educational videos very helpful for potential investors.
